

READ MORE

CEAT celebrates grand opening of the Phillips 66 Sustainability Lab with ribbon cutting ceremony

The College of Engineering, Architecture and Technology at Oklahoma State University and Phillips 66 opened the state-of-the-art Phillips 66 Sustainability Lab with a ribbon-cutting ceremony. The Phillips 66 Sustainability Lab, located in CEAT's ENDEAVOR Laboratory, is a learning environment designed to foster new innovation within CEAT students.

READ MORE

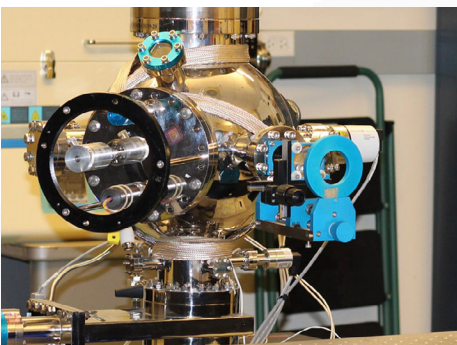

Honoring Heroes: The OSU 9/11 Memorial Stair Climb

On Sept. 14, the Oklahoma State University Fire Protection Society, along with the College of Engineering, Architecture and Technology, came together for its annual 9/11 Memorial Stair Climb. The event, now a time-honored tradition, serves as a powerful tribute to the 343 firefighters and first responders who gave their lives trying to save others on Sept. 11, 2001.

READ MORE

CEAT professors engineering color centers in hexagonal boron nitride

Dr. Ritesh Sachan, assistant professor of mechanical and aerospace engineering, and Dr. Don Lucca, regents professor of MAE, have received a National Science Foundation grant for their project entitled "Manufacturing of Color Centers in Hexagonal Boron Nitride for Quantum Applications."

READ MORE

CEAT's Kyle pursuing third industrial engineering and management degree

Ainsley Kyle is an industrial engineering and management major who just can't get enough of the College of Engineering, Architecture and Technology at Oklahoma State University.

READ MORE

CEAT faculty make advances in human-robot telemanipulation

Dr. Lingfeng Tao, assistant professor and coordinator of mechatronics and robotics, and Dr. He Bai, associate professor of mechanical and aerospace engineering, both from the College of Engineering, Architecture and Technology, have received a National Science Foundation EAGER award totaling $160,000.

- Facebook
- X
- Instagram
- Linkedin
- More Stories
- Give Now
- Contact Us

READ MORE

Dr. Nazaripouya named Distinguished Fellow of Electrical and Computer Engineering

Dr. Hamid Nazaripouya, assistant professor in the School of Electrical and Computer Engineering, was recently named a Distinguished Fellow of Electrical and Computer Engineering.